Dr. Hricak recently chaired The Lancet Oncology Commission on Medical Imaging and Nuclear Medicine and is currently co-chair of a Lancet Oncology Commission to address oncology workforce challenges—including the shortage of medical imaging practitioners and researchers—in Africa and Latin America. She is a member of the National Academy of Medicine and of the National Cancer Policy Forum and has served on the National Institutes of Health Board of Scientific Counselors, the Scientific Advisory Board of the National Cancer Institute, and the Advisory Council of the National Institute of Biomedical Imaging and Bioengineering (NIBIB).

A highly respected member of the international imaging community, Dr. Hricak has received gold medals from the International Society for Magnetic Resonance in Medicine (2003), the Association of University Radiologists (2007), the European Society of Radiology (2012), the Asian Oceanian Society of Radiology (2012), the Radiological Society of North America (2015) and the International Society for Strategic Studies in Radiology (2023), as well as honorary doctorates from the Ludwig Maximilian University in Munich, Germany and the University of Toulouse III, Paul Sabatier in Toulouse, France; she has been awarded more than 20 honorary fellowships or memberships from societies in North America, South America, Europe, Asia, and Australia.
